30th October 2017

Dear Parent/Carer,

Next week, Primary 7 will welcome Mr Ian Inglis and his Mobile Military Museum back to Bonnyrigg Primary School. The museum has been so well received over the last three years that we are delighted to announce its return.

The museum will be set up in the school gym on Monday 6th November and Tuesday 7th November 2017.

Mr Inglis has a vast collection of memorabilia which the children can interact with through a series of activities. They can even handle objects which in an ordinary museum would be strictly off-limits, all within the realms of health and safety, of course!

We hope this will stimulate their interest in our WWII topic and give them first-hand information on the impact war continues to have on us all.

This experience has proven so unique and engaging that we have again decided each class should spend a whole day with Mr Inglis and his museum. This will cost £7 per pupil. Please send payment to school by Friday 3rd November 2017.

Many thanks,

Mrs Bowman, Mrs Ireland and Mrs Sneddon
